Museum Update

In 2014 the Foster historical museum will celebrate its fortieth year. As part of the celebrations being organised to mark this achievement we hope to collect anecdotes related to the early years of the museum. If you are willing to be interviewed, have some photographs to share, or would like to write a paragraph illustrating the early years we would love to hear from you. Further details of the events planned to celebrate our fortieth anniversary will be released early in the New Year. The committee would be happy to receive suggestions.

Exhibitions

Foster Films, Art, Music and Drama Association staged its first production on 4th November 1953 in the Foster Mechanics Institute so 2013 represents FAMDA's sixtieth anniversary.

Part of the celebrations for this milestone is the exhibition currently on display at the Foster Museum. Titled Sixty Years of Foster Theatre, the exhibition features FAMDA memorabilia including costumes, photographs, programmes, videos and props from past productions and references to many of those involved with the company over its sixty year history.

Membership

This is a reminder that all membership subscriptions are due NOW. If you have not yet renewed, drop your subs into the Museum, or send to Norm Sparkes, our Treasurer, at PO Box 231 Foster 3960.

One of our new members this year, Peter Fitzpatrick, is to be congratulated on being the recipient of a National Biography Award for his double biography, The Two Frank Thrings that has been published by Monash University. The judges described the book as "a well-paced and clearly written biography in which the author brings to life two very different and determined self-mythologisers, and gracefully deals with what can be known about them and what cannot".

This year we have instituted membership cards for the convenience of members. They will also make it easier to take advantage of some of the benefits of membership of the Society:

- 1. Royal Historical Society of Victoria (RHSV). As our Society is affiliated with the RHSV, our members are entitled to free use of the RHSV library facilities located at 239 A'Beckett Street, Melbourne. The library is open Monday to Friday from 10 am to 4 pm.
- 2. Museums Australia (Vic). As Foster Museum is an accredited museum, the Foster Historical Society receives the following Museums Australia benefits:

Society:

- Five issues per year of INSITE, the MA (Vic) magazine, and four issues per year of the national Museums Australia Magazine (kept at the Reception Desk in the museum)
- A weekly e-bulletin of news, events, and funding opportunities (Committee).

Individual Members:

- Up to 50% off Museums Australia (Victoria)'s professional development seminars, training workshops, and other events.
- Discounted registration fees for the Victorian Museums and Galleries Conference and the Museums Australia National Conference.
- Free or discounted entry to participating museums and galleries, including the ACMI, the National Gallery of Victoria and Museum Victoria.

From the Archives

Did you know that?

- Mount Singapore on Wilsons Promontory was named after a 300 tonne ship the 'Singapore' that was involved in survey work in Corner Inlet in 1841.
- Two men were blown apart at Hoddle during the construction of the Great Southern Railway line.
- It is said that the rail line at Toora was laid across the town's small cemetery and one body still lies beneath the permanent way.
- Hedley was named after a Doctor Hedley from Sale.
- Amey's Track was named after a former convict who farmed at Benison. He cut the track to carry potatoes and stores to the Turton's Creek gold diggings.
- Anatasia's Lane was named after Anastasia Thornby who owned and ran the Exchange Hotel following the death of her husband William in 1874 till her death in 1907.

- Fleet Street was named after James Alexander Fleet allegedly an American Civil War soldier, born in Canada in 1841. He died in 1909 and is buried in the Foster cemetery.

William James McHaffie

William James McHaffie came to Australia aboard the 'Palmyra' and arrived in Melbourne in 1839. His younger brother James died on the vessel on the way to Australia probably of typhoid fever. William then sent for his younger brother, John, to join him. By 1843 the McHaffie brothers were preparing to move to Phillip Island. They had purchased a licence to occupy the whole island for €10 a year. After 5 years the Government increased the annual licence fee to £17.10s for a total of 9841 acres. William returned to Scotland shortly afterwards but John remained and married the daughter of a captain in the Royal Navy.

In 1868 the sale of land on Phillip Island commenced and the McHaffie holding was reduced to 499 acres. Prices for blocks of land ranged from €8 to £14. McHaffie then purchased a property at Yanakie on the isthmus of Wilsons Promontory. John Leeson was sent down to manage this property and the first load of wool from the property arrived in Melbourne in 1873.

Do you have an email address?

In order to reduce costs associated with the delivery of our newsletter it would be helpful if we could send the newsletter electronically to as many members as possible. If you have an email address and would be happy to receive your newsletter in this way could you please let us know in order that we can devise an electronic mail list. An email notification to cgi@unimelb.edu.au would be welcomed.

Roster

With many people on holiday over the Christmas and New Year period we are keen to hear from anyone who could volunteer to be part of the roster at this time. If you can volunteer please contact Meg Rogers or Nola Taylor.

An induction for new and existing volunteers will be held on Wednesday, 13 November at 10am. All members of the Society are encouraged to come along to hear about the new exhibition and processes for assisting visitors to the Museum.
